Talking 'Basics of Patenting in India' at University of Delhi

News & Updates • February 17, 2018

Nupur Maithani delivers a talk on the 'Basics of Patenting in India' to Microbiology students at the Institute of Home Economics, University of Delhi, as part of the conference on Microbiology: Current Challenges and Future Trends. The interest in patents became apparent as not just students but also the lecturers and researchers asked questions freely. The conference on Microbiology: Current Challenges and Future Trends is part of the Silver Jubilee Celebration of the Department of Microbiology of the institute.
